100% Pinot Nero. Earthy notes with delicious red berries. Delicate, fruity and vinous. A light, well balanced wine. Very juicy with a dry finish. Perfect with classic Italian dishes. Try paired with carne asada tacos! Strong cheeses can be interesting too.

Friuli-Venezia Giulia is where Italian, Germanic, and Slavic cultures converge. This is represented in the styles and varieties of wines produced in this region of Italy's far northeast. Often shortened to just "Friuli," the area is divided into many distinct subzones, including Friuli Grave. The flat valley of Friuli Grave is responsible for a large proportion of the region's wine production. The best vineyard locations are often on hillsides. Friuli boasts an ideal climate for viticulture, with warm sunny days and chilly nights that allow grapes to ripen slowly and evenly. From perfect grapes coming exclusively from the Cabert vineyards. Aged in stainless steel tanks.

Cabert, or the Cantina di Bertolò, established in 1960 in Bertolò, the farming village located in the middle of the "Friuli Grave" plain. It is a cooperative winery in the Udine region, 40 miles northwest of Trieste and 20 miles west of Slovenia. The Cabert distinction lies in its owners, who are connected to some of the oldest and most acclaimed families in the region—people with passion and keen attention for the grapevine, a cultural heritage handed down from father to son through for centuries. The cantina produces a variety of grapes from contracted family farms in Friuli-Grave, a wine region within the classification of Friuli-Venezia Giulia spanning 18,500 acres across the provinces of Udine and Pordenone. Today it continues to serve its hundreds of member families by vinifying and marketing high-quality wine in large volumes.
