

WEINGUT MARKUS HUBER NON-ALCOHOLIC SPARKLING WINE

100% Gelber Muskateller. Layla was inspired by an old Arabic tale, and “intoxicates” the senses with a captivating bouquet of apple blossoms and mandarin rinds, followed by a fresh, clear and perfectly balanced palate. Its vibrant acidity, delicate perlage and irresistible fruitiness create a harmonious symphony of flavors. Ideal as an aperitif or paired with salads, chicken, turkey or asparagus dishes.

The perfect choice for any occasion where alcohol isn't desired.

Gelber Muskateller grapes sourced from diverse vineyards in the Traisental Valley, Austria undergo a meticulous vinification process: crushed with 4 hours of skin contact, stainless steel fermentation, 3 months of batonage, 1 year of maturation, culminating in dealcoholization via reverse osmosis.

The Huber family has wine growing roots dating back more than 220 years. The winery in Reichersdorf was founded in 1648 and is in its 10th generation of family winemaking. Currently run by Markus Huber who took over four hectares from his father in 2000. Up to that point they had been producing the wines served in the family restaurant. Markus’ outstanding ability to manage the winery with sensitivity and consistency, both in the vineyards and the cellars, has ensured that in a very short time he has established Huber wines as an internationally acclaimed leading producer in Austria. “Sustainable development, carefully controlling the harvest and meticulous pruning are the most natural and important prerequisites for successful winemaking.” Markus Huber
