

TR TÁLLYA RADICALS DRY

Furmint & Hárslevelű. This classic dry style Tokaji wine is produced every year from the Palota vineyard in Tallya. Mineral in character with crisp acidity. Fresh, young, with flavors of orange, apple & quince. Organic.

The wine comes from the first-class Palota vineyard in Tallya, Tokaj, Hungary. The slope faces southeast, ranging from 180-220 meters high. The vines are 15-40 years old. The soil is volcanic, primarily comprised of andesite and rhyolite from the Sarmatian geological age, rhyolite tuff, zeolite, and quartz. Whole bunches were pressed gently, and fermentation was spontaneous with native yeasts in steel tanks with temperature control. 70% of the wine was aged on the lees in steel tanks, and 30% was aged in used 300 L Hungarian (Kádár) oak barrels for 8 months.

Tallya Radicals, aka TR Wines, are a group of four wine enthusiast friends - Anikó, Dénes, János and Pál - focused on rejuvenating the winemaking scene in Tallya, Tokaj. They founded their winery in 2012. The group owns a 8.6 acre estate in the Palota vineyard in Tallya, and 2.5 acres on the Szent Tamás vineyard in Mád. They were certified organic in 2020. Their wines coming from the Palota vineyard follow the style of the new generation of Tokaj vintages, with youthful vigor and lighter tones. The Palota's volcanic terroir of andesite, rhyolite, zeolite and quartz presents a perfect minerality for the wines, and its exposure provides the right balance between acidity and sugar. TR's goal is to spread the winemaking history of Tokaj, and to show the capabilities of the volcanic terroir and the indigenous grapes, Furmint and Hárslevelű.
